→ The bottle-flipping craze might have died down for a while in Vegas, but popularity resurgence could be on the rise, thanks in part to a group of world-champion bartending hotties and the new Rock & Rita's. Located inside Circus Circus (the first cool, new thing we can remember there in ... a long time), the new bar and restaurant created by the team behind Kahunaville at Treasure Island celebrates its grand opening July 4 weekend with a built-in party bus, keg bar stools and Americana gone delightfully awry. —DEANNA RILLING

HOT SPOTS

→ PAUL VAN DYK AT TAO & TAO BEACH "I'm really fortunate to be invited there on one of your biggest holidays," the famous German DJ/producer says. "Fourth of July weekend is all about freedom, all about democracy—and these are my core beliefs." Download our PvD podcast at LasVegasWeekly.com. July 3: Tao, doors at 10 p.m., $20 and up; July 4: Tao Beach, doors at 10 a.m., $20 and up.

→ MARKUS SCHULZ AND COSMIC GATE AT PALMS POOL With a tagline of "No hassle, no cover, no worries," how could anyone resist the free INDEPENDANCE Day pool party? Get there early to get in. July 4, doors at 9 a.m., free.

→ PUBLIC ENEMY AT JET Yeahh, boozey Flavor Flav, Chuck D and crew hit town for an exclusive performance. With DJ Homicide. July 3, doors at 10:30 p.m., $50 and up.

→ KELLY ROWLAND AT PURE We're willing to bet she'll include her hit track with David Guetta, "When Love Takes Over," in her live set. If not, maybe you can convince DJ Joey Mazzola, Cyberkid or Slip to play it for you. July 3, doors at 10 p.m., $20, locals free.

→ FOAM PARTY AT KRAVE Strip down and soap up as the dance floor gets covered in suds for July 4. Doors at 11 p.m., $10, locals free.
